Gone are the days of hanging an AED on the wall and hoping for the best - the world is full of first responders, off-duty nurses and Good Samaritans. But they are not carrying supplies!

| They can't administer Epinephrine - if it isn't there | They can't administer Narcan - if it isn't there | They can't apply a tourniquet - if it isn't there |

Introducing the LiveSafer™ system of modular, customizable, changeable public access First Aid cabinets

Nurses and School Life Safety decision makers have their work cut out for them as the threat of more complex emergencies and epidemics spawn well-intentioned but confusing legislation for schools and institutions. LiveSafer™ is designed with legislation in mind.

Asthmatic and food allergic students are now at all levels of the education system. Opioid overdoses are epidemic. Add that to the scary threat of active shooter incidents and we are now far from the days when putting an AED on the wall was enough. LiveSafer™ has a modular system protecting you from multiple incident types - and lets you change your mind if your needs change.

First Aid and rapid response take on a new meaning when it isn't just a matter of having the skills or the intention to help - many modern emergencies require devices and medications which must be grab-and-go and conspicuous with good instructions. LiveSafer™ has cases designed with clear, easy-to-spot labels and instructions so you know what to do in the event of an emergency.

All cabinets ship with magnetic exterior labeling so you can take time to determine the permanent contents and ideal labeling for your building. Permanent adhesive labels sold separately.

The LiveSafer™ First Aid Educational Center

No one wants to be in the middle of an emergency before they are learning what steps to take. The Emergency Response Learning Center is a durable duck fabric document holder that mounts flush to the wall next to any emergency cabinet and allows you to put multiple copies of each 8.5" x 11" laminated or paper instruction sheet. Everyone who sees it will appreciate instructions that are large enough to read and not folded a million times. You will see people reading them out of curiosity, increasing the overall emergency preparedness level of your community.

AEDs are getting smaller every year, but the carrying cases they are providing with them keep getting larger!

If your AED is too thick for a cabinet (perhaps due to a thick carrying case you can't bear to get rid of, then leave your AED in the cabinet or fixture it is currently stored in, and put your other supplies in our standard LiveSafer cabinet right next to, above or below, your current AED cabinet.

We believe you can respond to an emergency faster if you don't have to spend time removing your AED from a case. The cabinet provides adequate protection. We have created a proprietary conspicuous "Child/Infant AED Pads" pouch which you can secure to your AED handle with a lanyard.

We recommend storing AED without a carrying case.

Overdose Protection:

In addition to epinephrine, there is a growing need for another life-saving drug: Naloxone, which counteracts the devastating effects of opioid overdose, and is also available in an auto injector. The bright purple color of Overdose Emergency products easily differentiates them from the red epinephrine and asthma Allergy Emergency products. The locking, wall-mounted model of the Overdose Emergency Kit has all the same innovative features as the Original Allergy Emergency kit, such as a break-glass feature and velcro back panel, but comes with instructions for the use of Naloxone auto-injectors. The Emergency Case can be velcro mounted to a wall or stowed in the trunk of a police or first responder vehicle.
